Food Choice Value Negotiation
A model portraying the common food choice values applied in food choices, including taste, convenience, cost, managing relationships, health, and others. People weigh the options, prioritize values, and often make trade-offs between opposing values in different eating situations.

Adapted from: NS2450 Social Science Perspectives on Food and Nutrition