The Hyperloop Advanced Research Partnership (HARP) invites you to the “1st HARP International Conference on Hyperloop Transportation and Related Technologies”

LoopTransPort 2018 will be the first premier academic conference on all aspects of the future of Hyperloop transportation.

Join us on the UCLA campus!

Visit http://HyperloopPartnership.org/LoopTransPort2018 or contact us at info@harpconf.org.

Oral and Poster Presentations
Attend Oral and Poster Presentations by top researchers from universities and industry

Keynote Speakers
- Grover Burthey, Deputy Asst. Sec. for Transportation Policy, U.S. Dept of Transportation
- Dr. Rick Geddes, Director, Cornell Program in Infrastructure Policy; Pro., Cornell University
- Dr. Sam Gurol, Director of Maglev Systems (1998-2015), General Atomics
- Dr. Marcel Jufer, École Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne, and Swissmetro
- Dr. Yoshiaki Ohkami, Tokyo Institute of Technology & Keio University
- Dr. Jesse Powell, Founder and President, Maglev Strategies, LLC
- Pete Rahn, Secretary, Maryland Department of Transportation

Networking Opportunities
Meet colleagues and form collaborations

About HARP:
The Hyperloop Advanced Research Partnership is an independent, nonprofit organization with the mission to enable and promote the collaboration, research, funding, communication, and knowledge-sharing that is essential for the development of Hyperloop networks around the world. It aims to be an objective and impartial liaison between academia, government and industry stakeholders of this emerging technology. Please visit our website at http://HyperloopPartnership.org to learn more about HARP.

Major sponsor: UCLA Institute for Pure and Applied Math